Local Public Health Recognition Award

In 2016, Isanti County Public Health began awarding certificates of recognition to individuals and community groups responsible for contributions and accomplishments in public health. It is expected that Isanti County Public Health will continue this tradition by awarding groups and/or individuals each year during National Public Health Week, which is the first full week of April.

Selection Criteria

The Local Public Health Recognition Award was created to recognize individuals and groups who have worked toward achieving excellence in public health or exhibiting our Mission, Vision, or Values in the previous calendar year. Potential recipients should be able to show an example of an accomplishment or dedication to public health during the previous calendar year. The decisions on whom to recognize will be a consensus between the Community Health Supervisor, Emergency Manager, Nursing Supervisor, Director, and Public Health Commission representation (if any).

Eligibility

Persons and community groups eligible for this award include: Isanti County employees, community partners, stakeholders and residents.
